

Estibaliz Serrano

Programme Officer for IAHR IPD (Innovation and Professional Development Division)

Since joining IAHR in 2004 she is Publications Manager responsible for all our publications and has been especially involved in improvements to Hydrolink, JHR and JRBM. She has also handled the publication of IAHR Monographs (Water Engineering in Ancient Civilizations, Flow and Sediment Transport in Compound Channels, Hydraulicians in Europe Vol. 2) and various Proceedings (Coastlab 06, ISEH 04...).

Estibaliz Serrano is a graduate in Journalism from the Complutense University in Madrid and she also holds a Masters degree in Business Communications. Estibaliz was born in the historic city of Cadiz in Spain.

Before joining IAHR she worked for eight years in the communication and marketing departments of several companies and associations where she was responsible for external and internal communication activities (customer magazines, events, employee bulletins).

In 2010 we handed over the publishing of our two flagship Journals (JHR and JRBM) to Taylor and Francis and Estibaliz is now responsible for managing relations between IAHR and the publisher.

In addition to continuing her other publishing responsibilities, Estibaliz has assumed the new task of Programme Officer for IAHR IPD in which role she is providing support to the new Division in efforts to promote innovation working with the Chair Prof. Marian Muste and Secretary Sandra Soares.